

Spouses & partners of Foreign Experts

Can I also bring my spouse (Partner) and child with me to China?

Certainly, some Chinese employers, notably universities, colleges and High Schools welcome spouses and families to China. Chinese schools will not be responsible for your spouse's expenses (air ticket, health insurance, holidays expenses, etc.)

Foreign experts working in China have many choices to give their children a good education. They can send their children to an international school or any number of schools that have approval to admit foreign students. (For more concrete information on admission, please directly contact the school considered.)

Handy Tip for Families

Many teachers bring their spouse/partner and sometimes one or two children; however, only a few schools have family accommodation so you must be prepared to take what is offered. Big families (more than one child) are sometimes difficult to place. Any education fees are the responsibility of the teacher.
